Residence N. 7 at Candela Russian Hill epitomizes modern luxury living at its finest. Composed of two bedrooms, two full bathrooms, and an expansive private terrace with full views of Golden Gate Bridge, the home has been crafted to emphasize the light, and to balance the open living layout with the tranquility of private spaces. Whether you are seeking to entertain alfresco, or a serene oasis surrounded by a verdant garden beneath—living here is about transcending the boundaries between indoor and outdoor.

As a part of his signature approach to contemporary architecture, award-winning architect Michael Kao of MAK Studio designed kitchen cabinets to merge seamlessly with surrounding walls to add a sense of openness and aesthetic continuity of living and dining experiences. The richly hued natural Basaltina stone—used for countertops and backsplash—anchors the light palette for an elevated, yet timeless feel. The kitchen is fitted with top-of-the-line appliances and fixtures by Bertazzoni, Bosch, Fisher & Paykel, and Blanco among others.

The primary bedroom is a light and airy space outfitted with a custom European-style closet. The bathrooms are each a luxuriously appointed sanctuary featuring basaltina countertops, large-scale Petra Italia tiling as well as faucetry by Hansgrohe.
